

Baaritaanka Waxqabadka Sambabada

Pulmonary Function Tests

Pulmonary function tests, also called lung function tests, measure how much air and how well air moves in and out of your lungs. The tests check how your lungs work. They may be done to check for lung disease, how you respond to your treatment, or how well your lungs work before surgery.

Arrive on time for your tests. The tests take about 1 hour.

To Prepare

- Do not smoke for 4 to 6 hours before the tests.
- Only eat a small meal before the tests, so you can take deep breaths during the tests.
- Do not do any hard exercise for at least 30 minutes before the tests.
- If you take lung medicine, your doctor will tell you which medicines you need to stop taking and how long before the tests.

During the Tests
